SEWICKLEY'S INDIGNATION

Pours Forth in Remarks of Ridicule and in Long Resolutions.

A JUDGE'S THREATENING LETTERS

Come From a Few, While Many in Mass Meetings Praise Ilim.

REV. DR. ALLISON THE CHIEF SPEAKER

Nearly 300 people gathered in the Opera House at Sewickley last night to express their opinion of Hon. George Shiras' attempt to have Judge White investigated. They included business and professional men of Pittsburg who live in the beautiful village; the townsfolk who are neighbors of Judge White; countrymen from farms miles around Sewickley, and more than a dozen of ladies. The character of the audience was itself a compliment to

The meeting was called to order at 8:15 o'clock. John Way, Jr., was chosen Chairman and P. D. Nichols Secretary. The Vice Presidents included Dr. R. J. McCready, William Miller, J. McElwaine, S. McCleary, William Parker, Rev. W. O. Campbell, Rev. James Allison, D. C. Herbst, N. J. Watson, Captain George W. Cochran, R. J. Fetwell, W. P. ray, William and F. Shi

POOR, BUT HONEST, Messrs, W. R. Wallace, Thomas Patterson and John Dickson were appointed a Committee on Resolutions. They retired, and while the assembly awaited a report of their delibera-tions, Captain George W. Cochrane, formerly of the Pittsburg Petroleum Exchange, was called upon for a speech.

The Captain paid an earnest tribute to the integrity of His Honor Judge White founded upon years of business dealing he had had with him. He pronounced him one of purest jurists on the beach, and said he could not reconcile the intimations of judicial corruption with the fact that the Judge is still a poor man. If he had sold lies he couldn't help being a millionaire now. He severely denounced the attempt to impeach him as an insult to law-loving people and a menace to American institutions. The committee soon- returned to the room and submitted the following resolutions as its

the American people would always protest against such assaults. Of the originator of these impeachment resolutions at Harrisburg he said that George, or whatever his name was I, II, or III either, was not the man in age or experience that Judge White is and that now the public thoroughly understand what his motives were in offering such resolutions. "But the Georges all the way down never amounted to much," concluded the speaker.

Mr. Patterson, also a member of the committee, made a few remarks. Of George Shiras, III., he said that he was a young man, sore from some defeat, who had let his anger sweep him into this movement. Continuing, he said: "Judge White's dominant characteristic is his courage. He has administered the law in this license question with a nerve that few men

A RESULT PEDICTED. Rev. Dr. Jas. Allison, editor of the Presbyterian Banner, told of his long intimacy with Judge White, extending down from boyhood, and then spoke of the Judge's activity in all Sewickley enterprises. Dr. Allison continued: "We are glad to see that scarpely anybody believes these charges against the Judge. Why, the unfortunate young man at Harrisburg who made the charges does not believe them himself, I'll venture. This is simply intimidation —intimidation of the bench, which must next year pass on the liquor licenses again, both in Pirtsburg and Philadelphia. Pittsburg and Philadelphia.

"I once knew a boy who went out to shoot birds hear Bakerstown, when I was a child. In those days the old style of blunderbusses had to be leaded with a whole handful of powder and a handful of shot. Well, the boy shot at the bird. The bird was not hurt, but we found the boy sprawling on his back in a fence corner. Now, that is the way with this youthful shooter down at Harrisburg. He finds himself lying broad on his back. The temperance people despise him. The saloonkeepers despise him, too, for he gave them away. They did not ask him to do this.

what will be the result of all this? The Angle-Saxon race have always had that peculiarity of strongly wishing to obey the law of the land. All their revolutions have been conthe tand. All their revolutions have been constitutional in origin and jurpose. That in the time of George I, was constitutional. So was I when William and Mary wrested the government from James. In our own revolutionary struggle the Constitution was in view, and also in our late Civil war. Now this will help to bring about the Constitutional revolution—that of June 18."

The resolutions were then adopted by an up-roarious vote. It was unanimous, and the meet-ing adjourned.

STRIKING RIGHT OUT.

An Orntor and His Henrers in a U. P. Church Condemn the Judge's Assallnots-Strongly Supporting His Honor. The same subject discussed in the preceding article also came up prominently in a meeting in this city. Homer L. Castle, Esq., addressed a large and enthusiastic audience on the subject of Prohibition Amendment last night at the Eighth that has been traversed so often as this one about prohibition. I can't tell you anything else than what you have probably heard many a time. But yet I do believe we cannot really may too much about it. Our enemies are up and doing they are constantly awake, and everlastingly refuting the convicting arguments sustained serious injuries. A cross-beam saved big life to appear to the convicting arguments they are the convicting arguments. which we bur! against them, and it is necessary his life.

for us to keep on, too, until the curse of intemperance has been wiped away from our country. We cannot, dare not, stop half way. No more than this country could exist as the peer among civilized nations, by being composed of a part of freemen and the other part slaves, no more can we allow one part to be drunk, while the other part is sober.

"Now those people tell us that liquor is a wholesome boverage. It brings color in the face, and makes a man look rudgy. Yes, but the only part in the face that gets real red is the nese, and that spoils it!

"Then the people say that high license would reduce the salcons. I tell you if salcons fit was Judge White, with his little ax!

"However, there is something in connection with this which I have observed, and I must tell you what it is. We know that only 50 licenses were granted in the city of Pittsburg; but I tell you all the salcon keepers nearly are enlarging their places at least threefold, and hence we have really 279 salcons in the city after all.

"Still, we are told the high license law only after all.

"Still, we are told the high license law only after all.

"Still, we are told the high license law only allows respectable saloons to be kept. On that point I will simply say that, in my opinion, the places of mirrors and outward elegance and respectability are just the places which attract our boys and lead them to the goal of perdition; and I say therefore: Let the respectable saloon go first, and the low, disreputabilities will go out of existence anyhow.

"But then, look at the enormous revenue we get from the liquor trade! That is another cry we hear, and it reminds me of the story in the Bible where the Lord drove seven devils out of a man and cast them into a herd of swine. The Lord who had every reason to expect that the ord who had every reason to expect that the febrews would be grateful to him for what he had done was told:

"It is all very well to cast devils out of a man, but just think of the hogs; they have drowned themselves, where we might have sold them to themselves, where we might have sold them to the Romans, and made money out of them.' That is just what a good many people say, who do not drink themselves, and have nothing to do with the liquor business: 'Give it to the white-approned army, and let them create revenue for our State.'

"Ah, my dear friends, the Lord has given us the power to get this amendment into our Constitution, and I hope we will get it there. It is all the Constitution requires to be perfect. And not only that; it will be out of reach of our sixnemy Pennsylvania Legislature, and no legislator will be able to tough it to make political capital out of it. What consummate asses legislators can make of themselves has been sufficiently demonstrated to you in the last few days!

"Just consider the iniquity of endeavoring to impeach a man, a Judge, who construes the law in a sense highly beneficial to the people and the morality of the masses. Any constituency that will again return such a man and support him, I have my opinion of, as an American citizen.

support him, I have my opinion of, as an American citizen.

"Dear friends, the country is in about the same position as it was during the war. The Union forces, our boys in blue, were driven steadily back from Richmond. Back, back, they had to go, until they came into Pennsylvania. But here, on the field of Gettysburg, they rallied themselves, and from that day victory upon victory was fought, until the rebels were defeated. Shall it be the same this time? We were defeated in New Hampshire, in Massachusetts, in West Virginia, in Ohio and in Michigan; now then, let us once more make a Gettysburg in Pennsylvania, and defeat the curse of liquor on June 18."

The speaker was repeatedly and enthusiasticully applauded during his discourse. At the conclusion the motion was inade that everybody in the meeting express his determination to work and vote for the Constitutional amendment on June 18, and everybody sustain Judge White in his course of action in the last License Court. The resolution was unanimously agonted. The resolution was unanimously

A CHAT WITH HIS HONOR.

Judge White at Home Tells Some New Phases of the Sensation-Threatening Letters Received by Him. Judge White spent the entire day and vening at his modest little home in Sewickyesterday. He did not attend public meeting of the townspeople night, but found ample work opening, reading and assorting nearly 100 letters that came to him in the mails from some of the most prominent citizens of Valley and neighbors of Judge White, in meeting.

Pittsburg, Allegheny and other places. These assembled, without regard to political party or letters extended congratulations to the Judge letters extended congratulations to the Judge for the stand he had taken both in the refusal of for the stand he had taken both in the refusal of licenses, and the manner in which he met the attack upon him in the Legislature. The Judge declined to let the names of his correspondents be known, as they were private letters, although the reporters were permitted to read many of them confidentially. It turns out that Judge White has also received a few letters of a different nature. They ceived a few letters of a different nature. They were anonymous in all cases, and in a few instances were signed "White Caps." They contained threats, both mild and alarming, but His Honer, who even yet is perfectly fearless in all his movements, laughs at the epistless as the efforts of ignorant jokers to scare him. When asked by the reporter to permit the Shiras letters in the Schad license case to be published in The Disparch, the Judge repolied:

and independence of the Judiciary and as such is to be deprecated and resisted as destructive of our institutions.

GEORGE HI. CATCHES IT.

Dr. Wallace, as a member of the committee, defended the resolutions. He said the people of the Sewickley valley are shocked at this attack upon their respected townsman, Judge White. He dwelt upon the good qualities of the jurist, treated the movement against him more as the designs of liquor men than of learned attorneys, and said thas the spirit of the American people would always protest against such assaults. Of the originator of these impeachment resolutions at Harrisburg he said that George, or whatever his name was I. H. or III either, was not the man in age or attentions.

in which licenses were granted, Judge White said:

"I knew nothing about politics in the First ward. My information about the reputation of saloon keepers there came from sources totally foreign to politics. I never was in consultation with the heads of city departments but once. That was when I sent for Chief Brown to tell him of evidence which I had received as to why the Hamilton Hotel should receive a license. He was accompanied by Chief Elliot, but the latter had nothing whatever to say. No one living know who were to get licenses but myself. I did not even let my stenographer know. The only change I made on the list after it was made up finally was in the case of P. J. Foley, whom I struck off the list. "If I feel as I do now a year bence I shall resign rather than accept the hard work and responsibility of the License Court again. I never said Judge Ewing shirked. That was a mistake. I only said that he felt it incumbent upon him not to give up the court he was then believe? Judge White remembers with ease every Judge White remembers with ease every license mentioned to nim, whether refused or granted, no matter in what part of the county or cities. And, as the reporter found by testing him, he states without referring to notes his reasons for refusing each license.

He will hold court to-day, Josiah Cohen said yesterday that he would be on hand to-day to see what formal disposition Judges White and Magce make of the petitions for rehearings. If they are marked "Refused," then records will be asked for to appeal to the Supreme Court, as John Robb has done for the bottlers.

THEY SAY SO, TOO. The Sons of Temperance Unite With Other

Resolving Bodies. At the meeting of the Laurel Division, Sons of Temperance, held at their hall on Fifth avenue, near Washington street, last night, the following resolution was adopted: olved. That we, the members of th Laurel Division, Sons of Temperance, fully indorse the action of his Honor, J. W. F. White, during the session of the License Court, and look upon the resolution for impeachment as an insult to all Christian, moral and well-meaning people, and as such should be condemned by all respectable members of society.

The building will be placed on the east side of the main building toward Sixth street.

The speaker was introduced as intending to treat his subject from a commercial standpoint. Among other things, he said:

When the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers hold their annual convention next month, the members will be asked to accept the resignations of the two leading officials; in fact, they will have no choice in the matter, as President Weihe and Secretary Martin are determined to quit. In addition to these withdrawals, Trustee James H. Nutt will also announce his determination to leave the organization, or rather to be placed on the retired list. They all have something better in view, and if these recognized representatives of the brains of the organizaion are lost, the association, it is said, will tion are lost, the association, it is said, will have a tough row to hoe when they meet a lot of disorganized manufacturers. refused to continue the conversation or say anything further, except that he "had not It is an assured fact, however, that Mr. Mar tin is "on the list," or will soon be on, for something better than the position he now WHO WILL LEAD THE FIGHT?

President Weihe also declined to be inte viewed on the subject. A member of the or-ganization saw that the association had not the backbone of a year or two ago, although the membership was greater than ever before. He ridiculed the idea that the association would go under, but said they would have a big fight on their hands. Manufacturers have othing to say, and all reply to questions as Mr. Harry W. Oliver did yesterday: "I do not know what will be done, as I have been giving the matter very little attention. It is understood, however, that the manufact urers will not consent to the payment of the present wages for another year, while the workers will insist on their scale.

MR. CARNEGIE'S VISIT. It is said that Mr. Andrew Carnegie's visit t the city at this time is very significant. He proposes, it is stated, to revise the system of work and wages at his large plants, which are now controlled by the Amalgamated Association. A reduction in the wages of the men em-ployed at Homestead, it is said, is contempla-

Nothing definite can be said about the prospects for next year; but, with the manufac-turers unorganized and the Amalgamated As-sociation solid, it can safely be said that the workers will win a fight, if their demands are reasonable, notwithstanding the loss of the two highest officials. Their places will be filled, of course, by able men, as there are undoubtedly many in the organisation capable of filling the two important positions.

Several manufacturers and prominent members of the Amalgamated Association were spoken to in reference to the above, but none of them cared to make any statements except that there would not likely be a conference this year as heretofore. The statement that Mr. Martin will not be a candidate for the Secretaryship was acknowledged by a labor leader retaryship was acknowledged by a labor leader who has returned from Washington. He said: A PRIVATE CONFERENCE. "When I was in Washington I attended a name was mentioned, and his recommendations for the Commissionership of Labor were discussed. It was admitted by all that no man ever came so well recommended for a Govern-ment position as he has. It was set down as a positive fact that he must have something, positive fact that he must have something, and will get it whether it is a Consulate to Newcastle or not. The retirement of the two heads of the organization and the dissension among the roughers and catchers may affect the association to a certain extent, but I believe that equally good men can be found in the order to take their places, and secure a fair wage scale for the men."

A prominent worker who is able to fill either place in the organization said he would not have any of the offices, as there is not enough salary attached to them. This will likely be

NO COMMITTEE LIKELY. Among the manufacturers seen on the sub Lindsay & McCutcheon, who has represented the manufacturers on the conference committee. He said he did not believe the manufact urers would appoint a committee to meet the workers, but that if a scale was drawn up by the Amalgamated Association it would have to be presented to the individual firms for con-sideration.

As stated above, the Manufacturers' Assoclation that siways considered the wage question was dissolved almost a year ago.

A member of the firm of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. was seen late last night and stated that the report that they contemplated some changes in the scale was unfounded.

A MATERIAL REDUCTION. The Green Glass Blowers Asked to Accept

Less Wages for the Next Blast-A Very Significant Letter.

Thomas Wightman, of this city, who is President of the Green Glass and Bottle Blowers' Conference, of D. A. 143, K. of L., has written a very significant letter to Master Workman Louis Arrington. In it he says that the workmen must prepare to accept a material reduction in wages for the next blast. which will begin on September 1.

Mr. Wightman is one of the leading green glass manufacturers of Western Pennsylvania, and was chosen President of the conference. This body is composed of workers and manu-facturers, and their duties are to arrange any troubles that may occur during a blast.

The workers are all members of the Knights of Labor divided into two district assemblies, D. A. 143, composed of workers of the West, and D. A. 143, composed of workers of the East. When the wage scale is settled for a biast, a Conference Committee of both sides is appointed to settle any difficulties that may arise during a blast.

If the Western blowers accept a reduction in wages the Eastern workers must follow suit. An effort was made to see Mr. Wightman as to the causes that have led to the proposition for

"I do not know why there should be a reduction in wages, and do not know why a reduction should be offered, as trade is very good at present. The letter received by Mr. Arrington from President Wightman says: "A very material reduction." It will therefore not be any ordinary reduction, but a big one. I do not believe the workers will accept any reduction, especially a 'material' one. We will hold a convention some time in July; the place has not yet been named; but I am positive the convention will not consent to any reduction in wages. The Eastern and Western District Assemblies of the Knights of Labor will combline on the matter, and we may give them a big fight."

WHY MARTIN WITHDRAWS.

President Weihe, as stated, has announced that he positively will not run for re-election, and Secretary Martin, it is stated, will not again accept the position he has so acceptably filled for several years. Mr. Martin was a candidate for the position of National Commissioner of Labor, in place of Carroll D. Wright. He has a stack of indorsements from labor organizations and politicians that, if spread ont over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad track, would probably reach from here to Washington.

Yesterday Mr. Martin announced that he had withdrawn from the contest, but de-

He substantiated his story by showing the wounds he had received, the worst of which were a large lumpen his forehead above the right eye, which, he said, was made with a mace, and a very large cut over the left temple, from which blood was running very freely. very freely.

About four days ago Geisler was advised not to come to Duquesne any more, and not having put in an appearance until yesterday, the strikers were congratulating themselves that he had disappeared and would bring no more men up.

Monday night at a late hour the two Gilhooleys and two other men employed in the hooleys and two other men employed in the works made their appearance at the postoffice, opposite the hall, while the strikers were in session. One of the strikers who had seen this stated to a press representative that if the steel company permitted their men to walk around the town in that manner after night, or around the town in that manner after night, or even in daylight, that a riot was liable to occur at most any moment, notwithstanding that it is against their policy to participate in such work. The strikers held a meeting in Citizens' Hall yesterday morning, at which not much was done except that they resolved to stand firm and have meetings every day or two, in order that the men might be kept together and stand out until their demands were acceded to.

Reports were also heard from the soliciting committees. They reported that every place they visited had give them great encouragement if they would stand out. They claim that they have been guaranteed about $300 per week.

TO ORGANIZE AGAIN.

The Pipe Manufacturers Will Revive Their Old Association. An effort is about to be made to organize the old pipe manufacturers' association. which was disrupted just one year ago. A meeting will be held in New York to-day, and judging from the number of people who went from this city, the meeting will be attended by about every pipe manufacturer in the country. Since the disorganization of the association last May the manufacturers of the iron pipe last May the manufacturers of the iron pipe have felt the loss of the association, which, although it did not strictly maintain prices, it went a great ways toward doing so and maintained a sort of uniformity among the trade. When the association went to pieces every manufacturer in the country began cutting prices right and left. This continued until they had lost thousands of dollars, when it was seen that it was necessary to have another organization. Several meetings have been held, and at the one to-day the organization of the association will probably be completed.

Joseph McKee and Michael May Will Open Up Saloons There. Joseph McKee, the former well-known salocon keeper of this city and East Liberty. and Michael May, proprietor of the "Tavestock," both of whom were refused license by Judge White, left last evening for New York. To a friend Mr. McKee said be was going to the metropolis to look around for a place to engage in the saloon business. He said he was engage in the saloon business. He said he was going to follow the example of Harry Alden, and if he got a suitable place he would perma nently locate in New York City. Mr. May was bent upon the same errand.

When approached by a DISPATCH reporter Mr. McKee said he was going to New York "on a little private business matter," and would not say he was going to engage in the saloon business there. To the question of what he was going to do in the future, he said he "would stick it out another year and then apply again for a license," by the Implement. Yesterday afternoon George Howard was walking along Penn avenue near Thirtyninth street, when Adam Gerhard rushed up to him with a pitchfork in his hand and demanded the reconsideration of a sale. How-ard refused. Some angry words followed, and ard refused. Some angry words followed, and Gerhard, it is alleged, ran his pitchfork through the scalp of the prosecutor's head. He then knocked him down and beat him. Upon the approach of some men Gerhard, it is said, ran away.

Howard's scalp was terribly torn from the effect of the pitchfork thrust and his shoulder was dislocated. He was removed to his home in Bloomfield, and afterward carried to Alderman Doughty's office, where an information was made against Gerhard.

Manager Wilt Has No Opinion on th Trouble of the Tenor Singer. Wilt, the manager of the Opera House, was interviewed last night, and when asked what he had to say in regard to the trouble between Colonel Foster and Chevaller Scovel, the tenor, the manager said: "I am sorry, but I am not able to tell you any-thing else but what I saw in THE DISPATCH this morning, and that Colonel Foster says the Chevalier was intoxicated.

"But I will say this: In my opinion there were several of the male members of the company a little under the weather last Monday night, and I told Chevalier Scovel myself that had he not been that way a little he would never have had any trouble with Colonel Footar. Foster.
